ANDREWS BEGINS RE-ORGANIZATION OF LIQUOR LAW ENFORCEMENT DEPARTMENT

MARSHALS FORCES TO CONSIDER CHANGES DUE TO CORRUPTION

Attempt To Divorce Prohibition From Politics Hopeless

Washington, July 24.—With the situation charged with political static, General C. Andrews, prohibition commissioner, marshalled his war council today and prepared to complete reorganization.

Reappointment of prohibition administrators, shifting of a number of originally announced districts and reports to the department of justice indicating widespread corruption in enforcement throughout the country, were the chief topics for the general staff.

The government's effort to divorce re-organization of prohibition from politics, has been tossed aside as hopeless. Official indicated that organizing any government activity sans politics is about as possible as perpetual motion.

The Republican national committee, it was learned, is taking an active interest in the new prohibition machinery, both from the standpoint of personal and politically equitable boundaries for districts.

One cabinet officer—Postmaster General New—James C. White, of Boston; secretary of the Republican committee and right hand man to Senator Butler (Republican) of Massachusetts besides numerous lesser lights in the political world have seen Andrews within the last twenty four hours.

The visitors were so numerous that Andrews finally cancelled all engagements in order to make preparations for the "board of strategy" meeting when he will see Commissioner of Internal Revenue Blair, Prohibition Commissioner Haynes and other brigade and battalion commanders.

Virtually every member of Andrews war council have a careful regard for political influence. While Andrews himself has borne the brunt of the political attack, congressional and state leaders have been active in putting their claims before Blair and Haynes.

While Andrews has intimated that he "may stand pat" on the present district plans, it was understood today that a number of important changes are under consideration.

Information from South-Hampton, Rhode Island, where Secretary of the Treasury Mellon is spending the summer, indicated that Mellon is satisfied with the progress of prohibition reorganization.

Acting Secretary Winston said that progress is as rapid as can be expected in view of the magnitude of the problem. The new system will go into effect August 1, Winston said, although he pointed out that actually the transformation cannot be accomplished in one day.

MOVE RE-TRIAL OF DOLLINGS HEADS

Columbus, O., July 24.—Decision to move the re-trial of William G. Benham, president of the defunct R. L. Dollings Company, at the September term of United States court here, following reversal of their conviction by the United States circuit court of appeals sitting at Grand Rapids, Michigan, was announced here today by United States District Attorney Haveth E. Mau, Cincinnati. Federal Judge Smith W. Hickenlooper, Cincinnati, will preside, Judge Benson W. Hough, Columbus, being disqualified because he was prosecuting attorney at the first trial, when Benham and Harrison were convicted and sentenced to serve twenty years in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kansas.

GIDEONS MERGER; TO LAY OUT PROGRAM

Columbus, O., July 24.—United States and Canadian organizations of the Christian Commercial Travelers of North America, familiarly known as the Gideons, following their consolidation here last Thursday were scheduled to adopt its new constitution and by-laws today and to plan for future missionary work of the amalgamated body.

Hope was expressed by Samuel R. Borge, United States president, that eventually the scope of the organization would embrace the world. The annual dinner of the organization will be held tonight and officers will be elected Saturday.

DON'T MURDER MY SON, MOTHER'S PLEA

Cleveland, O., July 24.—"I'm greatly relieved, now perhaps they'll find out who killed Joseph Maurer."

This was the comment today of Mrs. Rilla May Scott, mother of Russell Scott, who was saved from death on the gallows early this morning by the intervention of a court writ.

The hours of waiting for what appeared to be the inevitable end had sapped the strength and nerve of the woman but when death seemed certain, for one son, she met the issue bravely.

Late last night she dispatched a telegram to Governor Len Small, of Illinois, asking him to save Russell.

"If you are a Christian, don't murder my son," the telegram read. Now with the immediate threat of death removed, Mrs. Scott hopes that her son, Robert, will surrender to authorities, tell his story and is confident that if he will, both of her boys will go free.

"I know neither of my boys are murderers," she declared. "I hope Robert will come forward and tell what he knows."

"Of course Russell isn't insane, unless brooding over his unjust fate has made him so. The truth will come out now. God is good."

Mrs. Scott, her hair gray with the passing of years and her great trouble, has been living quietly in the little town of Bay Village, ten miles from Cleveland. She has been supporting herself by working in a department store.

Last night two friends came from Windsor to strengthen her during the hours of waiting.

CAILLAUX PLANS TO ATTEND MEETING TO NEGOTIATE DEBTS

Paris, July 24.—Finance Minister Caillaux will go personally to Washington to participate in the negotiations of a settlement of the French war debt to the United States.

The cabinet today gave its unanimous approval to such a mission in the part of M. Caillaux. It leaves it entirely to the discretion of the finance minister to determine whether the exigencies of the proposed mission.

M. Caillaux will later therefore determine whether he will accompany the debt commission to Washington or join in the negotiations at a later date.

In any event M. Caillaux's presence in Washington is believed assured. Political observers were unanimous in declaring that France could on no account even consider such a thing as M. Caillaux's absence from the Washington parleys. His presence it has been conceded from the start would greatly enhance French prestige.

The cabinet also approved the plans of Foreign Minister Briand and M. Caillaux for sending experts to London next week to discuss the French debt to Great Britain.

SHERIFF PROTESTS

St. Clairsville, July 24.—Protests that the Belmont County commissioners are making the sheriff's office a collection agency for the Belmont County Dry Law Enforcement League, were made here by Sheriff S. M. Dunfee. He was ordered by the commissioners to round up fifteen of the twenty-five dry law violators arrested by agents of the league and paroled last year. Dunfee said the order meant that if the fines were paid the county would get nothing, the league only benefitting.

SUICIDE OR MURDER PROVES PUZZLE AS AUTO DISCOVERED

Wreck, Shot And Whiskey Leads To Probe Of Possible Bloodshed

Lima, O., July 24.—Allen County police are confronted with an accident mystery, which they fear may develop into a case of suicide or murder.

Early this morning Mulford Tapscott, farmer living three miles east of Lima, was aroused by the sound of a crash near his home. He thought but little of it. Ten minutes later the sharp report of a pistol came a short distance down the road.

At 4:30 o'clock when he arose he found a new 1925 model Buick coupe overturned in the ditch and completely demolished. In the auto and scattered near it were 146 gallons of whiskey.

Sheriff Crosson was summoned and seized both the liquor and the wrecked car.

Sheriff's deputies are beating the woods and fields surrounding the scene of accident in the supposition that the driver of the machine being badly injured, had dragged himself away and then committed suicide.

The other theory of the shot following the crash is that the liquor car was being pursued by highjackers who either shot and injured a man in the road or were wounded.

The car was head toward Columbus when it overturned. It carried license plates 446-272 issued in Columbus, tags 284-525, issued in St. Clairsville and a set of Michigan tags, 30-475-B were also found in the car.

SPINSTERS KILLED AND ROBBED; SEEK MISSING AUTOISTS

Hudson, N. H., July 24.—Two autoists in a battered car were sought to day as the slayers of two aged spinsters, Miss Helen E. Gillis, 80, and her sister, Miss Georgiana Gillis, 77, who were clubbed to death in their little white farm house here.

Two strange men, police discovered, left their car with a New Hampshire registration in a garage near the scene of the crime about the time the sisters were murdered. The car mysteriously disappeared from the garage that night.

Police believe robbery was the motive.

FAVORS RESTRICTION

Columbus, July 24.—The "great need of more stringent immigration restrictions" to check the "alarming" growth in the population of Ohio's state insane hospitals; due largely to the foreign element, is urged by John E. Harper, state director of welfare in his annual report, made public today. The insane population in the hospitals is 13,260, Harper said, an average of 214 per 100,000 of population. The average is far higher than a quarter century ago, Harper said; he pointed out that a much larger proportion of mental defectives are now being confined in hospitals than 25 years ago.

Supposing that the levies of all other taxing subdivisions remain constant next year, the total rate paid by Xenians will be $25.80 as compared with $26.20 this year and something more than $27 per thousand last year. If the tentative budget figures are allowed, totalling only $70,900 as compared with $74,300 last year and will result in a rate reduction from 6.40 mills to 6.00 mills, or an actual city rate of only $6 per $1,000 worth of valuation.

they will mark the second large decrease in levies made by the city itself in two years, showing a rate trend downward at a time when other expenses have tended to increase.

TO SEEK DISMISSAL OF EVOLUTION CASE ON TECHNICALITIES

Attempt To Avoid Religious-Scientific Clash

Washington, July 24.—The full force of the legal department of the federal government will be exerted to avoid a clash between religion and science in the national capital's evolution case, scheduled to be heard in the District of Columbia supreme court next Tuesday, it was learned.

With this end in view, the defense will seek to have dismissed on legal technicalities the suit brought by Loren H. Wittner seeking to stop salaries of teachers inculcating "disrespect to the Holy Bible."

The government has been brought into the case by the naming of Frank White, treasurer of the United States, as a defendant. A representative of the department of justice, under direction of Assistant Attorney General Letts will be on the defense staff.

In addition numerous minor flaws in the petition itself, the defense is planning to concentrate on having the case thrown out on the grounds it is a tax payer's suit and involves no material personal interest on the part of Wittner.

The defense will contend that the supreme court has decided that a taxpayer, without a personal interest, cannot enjoin public funds.

On the part of government authorities there is admittedly a strong desire to prevent, if possible, a recurrence here of anything like the Scopes trial in Tennessee.

Wittner's petition opens the way for a possible far flung battle between religious and scientific beliefs and the defense wants to stifle that clash before it can gain headway in the federal courts.

BLUEJACKETS QUIT PARADE TO ASSIST SPECTATORS HURT

Melbourne Citizens Watching Americans Hurt As Balcony Falls To Street

Melbourne, Australia, July 24.—Fifteen spectators, watching the parade of sailors from the American fleet in the gala welcome program today were injured when the balcony under them collapsed, throwing them to the street.

The bluejackets, from the great American squadron halted their march and rushed to aid the injured. They resumed the parade after the victims had been taken care of.

The stand was crowded with cheering Australians when the crash came. The street below also was filled with spectators and some of these were among the injured.

Melbourne has opened its arms to the American fleet. Every motion picture house and legitimate theater in the city welcomed the visitors, refusing to accept their money. Reception for the officers and dances for the men entertained the hosts of bluejackets.

Admiral Robert E. Coontz, commander in chief of the fleet, expressed his delight today at the warm reception.

ENLARGE HOSPITAL

Chillicothe, July 24.—Improvements now under way here at the U. S. Veterans' Bureau Hospital will greatly assist in the treatment of invalid veterans hospitalized here, it is announced. Work has been started on enlargement of the clinical treatment and occupational therapy service. Alterations and extensions are being made to the main building for hydrotherapy and electrotherapy treatments. These extensions will increase the capacity of the hospital in this regard 100 per cent. At present, 125 of the 490 patients being cared for here are being given these treatments. Dr. G. A. Rowland, chief of staff, said, for current expenses this year, $800 more than 1925, in the belief expense demands will be slightly higher, and cuts down the amount asked for the sinking fund to $29,000. The levy change will bring the tax rate on current expenses down to 3.50 mills and in the sinking fund to 2.50 mills, a total of 6 mills.

Because the general fund shows a good balance, no appropriation is asked for that fund for 1926. The budget levies $24,000 for the

EMPLOYEES TO GET INCREASES SOON

Columbus, O., July 24.—Two thousand minor employees of the state welfare department at state hospitals and penal institutions will receive their first checks under the wage increase plans of the department next week, John E. Harper, state welfare director announced today. The increases are small, ranging from $5 to $15 a month and were allowed to those employees on the lowest wage levels.

MESSAGE FROM PORT HURON, MICH., WOMAN AGAIN REVIVES HOPE

Robert Scott On Way To Chicago—Insanity Plea Halts Death

Chicago, July 24.—A message from Port Huron, saying "If I live I'll be in Chicago today," and purporting to come from Robert Scott, today revived the hopes of Russell Scott condemned and thrice saved slayer of Joseph Maurer, his wife and father.

The message was sent by Mrs. Victoria Lapert, owner of an apartment building at Port Huron, to whom a man answering the meagre description of Robert Scott appealed for aid because of illness late last night, then sped away at 2 o'clock this morning in an automobile. For

WAS DRUG ADDICT

Chicago, July 24.—The petition which brought his life back to Russell Scott is signed by his father and contains the charge that Scott, is, or was until his incarceration, a drug addict and that his being deprived of narcotics in jail resulted in his mind warping.

Prepared by Attorney William S. Stewart, the petition proved more effective in staying the execution than had petitions from 15,000 citizens, tears of Scott's wife or other efforts to gain a reprieve for Scott.

It is upon Robert Scott that Russell and his faithful wife, pin their hopes to gain freedom from the condemned prisoner.

"This man came to my home about 10:30 last night," Mrs. Lapert said over the telephone today. "He drove up in an automobile and staggered to the door."

"He said he was suffering terribly from cramps and asked me to do something for him. He was white and drawn and dusty, as though he had travelled far."

"He told me his name was Fred Smith."

"I administered aid as best I could. I gave him hot water and Jamaica ginger. He yested for a while, then said he must be going."

Chicago, July 24.—Russell P. Scott was literally picked from mid-air early today.

Four hours before he was to have stepped on the death tray in the county jail, to drop the scant ten feet of a hangman's hemp into eternity, attorneys William Scott Stewart and W. W. O'Brien won for him a new lease of life. It was the third time in less than one hundred days that Scott had been saved from the gallows, each time with a space of hours between him and payment for the death of Joseph Maurer, drug clerk, for whose murder he had been convicted.

Judge Joseph B. David, sitting in the county building, gave Scott his latest escape from the noose. He signed at 2:07 a.m. a petition filed by the attorney who had secured the acquittal of William D. Shepherd on the charge of having slain his foster son, "Billy" McClellan, alleging that Scott has, since his sentence and incarceration, become insane and that he is insane at the present time.

Within five minutes and before the attorneys and Thomas Scott, father of the condemned man could reach the jail, Scott had been told of the ruling by newspapermen assigned to the death watch. He hung his head and seemed unable to speak.

Before the court stay was issued Scott wrote out a "last statement."

It read: "I cannot bring myself to getting down on my knees and begging for my life."

"There is nothing I can say that I have not already said. I am innocent of the crime for which I am sentenced to die. The great crime will be the one committed in the name of the law by the state of Illinois tomorrow morning."

"I need these last few hours to try and remove the bitterness and anger from my heart against those who are deliberately responsible for this awful injustice. This is going to be very, very hard."

"God have mercy on them, not only for that which they do to me, but for the unspeakable and indescribable suffering and agony they bring on those who love me."

COMMISSIONERS ON TRIPS; NO MEETING

Columbus, O., July 24.—Hope was held in some quarters here today that the state buildings commission and the special legislative advisory committee would be able at their meeting here today to reach an agreement on the site for the proposed new $4,000,000 state office building.

The law giving the committee advisory powers went into effect Thursday.

At their last gatherings here, the two bodies met separately and selected different sites for the building, the building commission agreeing on a site opposite the state house annex on Third Street, and the advisory committee favoring a site at State and Front Streets, in the proposed new Columbus civic center.

Xenia City Tax Rate Will Be Reduced For 1926

Manager's Budget To Call For Levies Cutting Rate .4 Mills

Xenians will pay a lower tax rate next year, thanks to economy measures of the city administration, according to tentative budget figures prepared by City Manager S. O. Hale.

The tentative budget prepared by the manager, asks for levies totalling only $70,900 as compared with $74,300 last year and will result in a rate reduction from 6.40 mills to 6.00 mills, or an actual city rate of only $6 per $1,000 worth of valuation.

Supposing that the levies of all other taxing subdivisions remain constant next year, the total rate paid by Xenians will be $25.80 as compared with $26.20 this year and something more than $27 per thousand last year. If the tentative budget figures are allowed,

they will mark the second large decrease in levies made by the city itself in two years, showing a rate trend downward at a time when other expenses have tended to increase.

The levy is based on a property valuation of $11,823,630. Last year's budget called for an appropriation of $41,100 for current expenses and $33,200 for the sinking fund. The budget prepared by City Manager Hale for this year, asks an appropriation of $41,900 for current expenses this year, $800 more than 1925, in the belief expense demands will be slightly higher, and cuts down the amount asked for the sinking fund to $29,000. The levy change will bring the tax rate on current expenses down to 3.50 mills and in the sinking fund to 2.50 mills, a total of 6 mills.

Because the general fund shows a good balance, no appropriation is asked for that fund for 1926. The budget levies $24,000 for the public safety fund; $16,500 for the public service fund and $1,400 for the public health fund.

Xenia is exempt from provisions of the new Vorys budget law, enacted by the last General Assembly, which does not affect charter cities with a complete budget system.

The 1926 budget will be presented to the County Budget Commission for approval. The commission last year granted practically the amounts asked.

Columbus, O., July 24.—Hope was held in some quarters here today that the state buildings commission and the special legislative advisory committee would be able at their meeting here today to reach an agreement on the site for the proposed new $4,000,000 state office building.

MRS. J. A. THUMA IS CALLED BY DEATH AT HOME IN JAMESTOWN

MRS. J. A. THUMA

Mrs. Virginia Clark Thuma, wife of J. A. Thuma, prominent Jamestown business man, died at her home on Clamans Avenue, Jamestown at 4 o'clock Friday morning.

In failing health for the last two years, Mrs. Thuma was stricken by paralysis last Tuesday, and following the stroke never regained consciousness.

Mrs. Thuma was born in Parnassus,
Va., seventy years ago, and spent her early life there. Her marriage to Mr. Thuma took place in Virginia, and the fiftieth anniversary of that event was celebrated at the Thuma home last April 15. At that time fifty relatives and friends of the family were entertained.

Mr. and Mrs. Thuma moved to Jamestown from Virginia more than forty years ago. Mr. Thuma has been engaged in the lumber business in Jamestown many years, his son Ernest now being associated with him. The firm name is Adams and Thuma.

Surviving Mrs. Thuma are her husband and three children, Mrs.
George Eckerle of Xenia; Ernest Thuma and Mrs. O. F. Reeves of Jamestown; three sisters, and a brother; Mrs. Mary Staudus of Lees-

UNITY OF ALL CHURCHES PLEA OF COLLEGE PRESIDENT AT SUNDAY SCHOOL MEETING

President W. R. McChesney of Cedarville College, addressing the Greene County Sunday School convention, at the Yellow Springs M. E.
Church, Thursday night, expressed a wish that all Christian denominations might be united. One's denomination he said, would never alone get him to Heaven. "Depend upon your denomination to get you into Heaven, and you are lost," he said. Dr. Mc-Chesney's topic was "The Christian."

Mrs. R. M. Sandy, state Sunday school worker, addressing the convention on the subject of The Daily Vacation Bible School, said this plan often reaches many children that the Sunday school does not, as it has a tendency to draw the community together without distinction. She said the co-operation of ministers, church leaders and superintendents of Sunday Schools is necessary as without them nothing can be done. She suggested the church take care of its share of the expenses of the vacation Bible school in its annual budget so that funds will be ready for the work when the course opens. She recommended the opening of the Bible school as soon as the regular term of school closes, as the children can be more readily brought together and their minds will be more receptive at that time.

"Find me a better moral code than the Bible and I will lay the Bible aside" said the Rev. L. L. Gray, pastor of the Jamestown Presbyterian Church, whose topic was "The Bible in the Public School." Bible teaching, the pastor said, is the best method of moulding character and clean conscience, and build up good character and strong foundations.
"Bible teaching," he said, "has changed the character of people. We must stand by the Bible. Christ and his followers never objected to progress."

G. S. Richmond, state Sunday school worker, in his talk on the Week Day School of Religion said that some plan should be reached by which the church, school and home could agree on a plan of giving week day religious instruction to pupils in the public schools. He suggested that pupils be dismissed two sessions a week that they might receive religious training. He suggested a community center for the work presided over by trained, competent, thoroughly Christian workers.

Mrs. E. C. Walley of Spring Valley gave a violin number during the atternoon session. An original poem on the Vacation Bible School was read by Miss Rosa Johnson of Spring Valley. A reading was also given by Miss Alma Mendenhall of Spring Valley.

The resignation of J. H. Nagley of Xenia as treasurer of the Sunday School Association was presented to the convention Thursday. Mr.
Nagley's annual report was read by the president, the Rev. W. B. Leis.
Miss Burtha Day of Jamestown, secretary of the association, read her annual report.

The convention closed Friday afternoon. United States Senator S. J.
Fess was a speaker at the closing session. Election of officers was also on the program for Friday.

GOOD PURSES IN FAST CLASSES EXPECTED TO ATTRACT SPEEDERS TO THIS YEAR'S FAIR

The speed program of the Greene County Fair, August 5, 6 and 7, has been given due consideration by the members in charge, C. M. Austin, B. U. Bell and Grant Miller and it has been their aim to add more money to the faster classes thus giving more to the horses that have racing reputations back of them.

All races will be raced at the three heat plan, making every heat a race. The horses will be paid as they finish each heat after 10 percent of the original purse has been deducted which will go to the winners of the race. A three percent entrance fee will be paid by each horse entered which will be added to the purse after the 10 percent has been deducted from the original purse as a bonus to money winners, thus greatly enhancing the purses already given making them range in value to the horseman from $400 to $600 each.

Wednesday, August 5, there will be the 2:25 pace with $300 purse, the Ivan Clouse, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Clouse of North Detroit Street, is suffering with an attack of summer gripe. His condition was somewhat improved Friday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sparks have gone to Michigan where they will be the guests for three weeks of Mr. and Mrs. Plummer Mifflin, of Lansing, at their summer cottage in the northern part of the state. After their return home Mr. and Mrs. Sparks are planning a motor trip to Florida.

Here's A Real Prescription For The Torturing Pains of Neuritis

When you've tried everything you can think of and nothing seems to even relieve those piercing, agonizing pains, just go to Sayre and Hemphill or some other good druggist and get a bottle of Allenru Special Formula No. 2. Be sure you get No. 2, which comes in a capsule form, for the liquid form is a special preparation for Rheumatism only. Take these little dark green capsules as directed and notice how in about 24 hours they have considerably reduced, if not entirely banished, those persistent nerve racking pains that have caused you many sleepless nights. A few more doses and the pains have left you forever. While this particular formula was compounded for the purpose of conquering painful, Gouty conditions and what is known as Rheumatoid Arthritis—a knotty, painful swelling of the joints—it has proven wonderfully successful in all forms of Neuritis and Sciatic Nerve Pains. You needn't be afraid of its containing dope of any kind—it doesn't. Such things are only makeshifts and can only at the best give temporary relief. Be sure you've got Neuritis and then get Allenru Special Formula No. 2. Your pains will be gone before you know it.

The following appeared in "The Bellbrook Moon" under date of Oct. 14, 1886. "There was excitement in the village last Saturday night passing in magnitude that occasioned by the French invasion of Mexico, when Doctor Turnbull deliberately drew from his pistol pocket a relic of antiquity commonly denominated a 'Pepper-box' and in several languages threatened to furnish his fellow townsman Abner Duncan with free transportation across the dark river into the evergreen fields of eternal bliss."

The many friends of Sammy Bowles realizing that he was about to pass from under parental control, having arrived at the age where the constitution confers on him full citizenship, repaired to his home on last Tuesday evening, July 16, and notified him that he was now a part of the great Government of the United States. A general good time followed, the ones in charge going the limit in entertaining the two or more score assembled.

A supper such as seldom seen on such occasions was partaken of in a highly appreciative manner. A good social time followed the repast with various games and amusements being indulged in. Present were: Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Mundabaugh, step father and mother of Mr. Bowles and his brother and sister Chilton and Mary Bowles. Scalp!

We carry brands of scalp cleansers, 3 of which are extraordinarily good. Ask Jake for the name of these three—that is if you have hair you're interested in.

Face!

It sounds dumb maybe, but the wise MAN ought to be just as interested in the skin on HIS face as the WOMAN is about her. A clean, bright skin attracts MEN so why not use the same stuff to make the WOMAN turn around when you're strutting your stuff?

Teeth!

This Milk of Magnesia Tooth Paste is going over so big everywhere, they decided to "spread their sails" now that the winds freshened up so Jake "obeyed that impulse" and stuck in a keen looking window with price tags labeled 19c and 39c.

Eyes!

Last week we told of the new invention which makes it possible for folks to TAKE PICTURES of OTHER folks. The store has been crowded since then with curiosity seekers, many of them coming in full of doubt and leaving NOT so full. The owner of the new device calls them KODAKS!

Feet!

Plenty folks get tired and they've done nothing but rustle about on their hind legs. Their feet hurt 'em! We've a NON-SKID arch support that makes you feel like a boy or a Collie Pup! Puts wings on you! The blamed things sell for too much money ($1.50 to $2.) but they're patented and we can't do anything on price but they sure are good!

Why We Think We're Good

Name any other sort of store which can contribute in equal measure to HUMAN CONTENTMENT like a DRUG STORE and we'll prove in one holy minute YOU'RE WRONG!

A drug store—the modern sort that is—deals in physical and mental CONTENTMENT. There's no part of the human BODY and mity few areas of our MENTAL apparatus which we don't play a tune on! What made me think of it was the wide variety of items I'd selected for this week's ad. Look over them yourself and see if I'm overheard or not! A shampoo and a corn remedy take care of the two ends of a human while pills, tonics and powders handle the central portions (inside). Talcum, creams and soaps take care of the surface, allowing Victrola Records, magazines and telephone booth to handle the old noodle via the eye and ear!

And your APPETITE! Gosh, look what we handle at our Fountain and Candy Counter!

We even attempt DECORATION! Bathing caps, hair nets and goggles are just a few samples of THAT effort.

Yes, I rather believe we're GOOD!

DOC SAYRE.

Shorty Says

I read what Doc wrote and I goes over to the library and digs out Well's Outline of History and showed Doc that the world gottalong swell for a couple million years without no drugstores!

I also pointed out that an old leather neck named Methuselah lived some 900 odd years without no face cream or safety razors. Doc was what Mister Chew over at the paper would have called "nonplussed." Finally he lays down his nutter where he was practicing back of the prescription case and says:

"Shorty, after listening to you and seeing you around here so much, I'm commencing to realize after all that Clarence Darrow and Mister Scopes MIGHT be right!"

And then Doc wouldn't say no more and me, seeing he was throwing a rock at me clean over MY head—went away from where I was at.

Who ever heard of Darrow and Scopes and what've they gotta do with drug storing?

LINES.

DALMISTS tell us of the life line, which by its length or brevity, measures the span of life.

But modern conditions have taught us of another life line, that measures life by its breadth rather than its length.

It is the white line on the street or road, painted there by the state highway department, to regulate the flow of motor traffic at the dangerous curves.

Thus we are coming to be a nation living by the regulation of white lines on the street. Once pedestrians and vehicular traffic mingled fearlessly and the problem of traffic was a question that only the prophets foresaw.

The automobile and its increasing burden on traffic arteries, changed all of that. Now white lines designate the place for the traffic of one direction and the traffic of the other direction. White lines point the safety zone for the pedestrian and the conduit for the vehicle. White lines designate where autos may be parked, or where the street is reserved for car stops.

Now white lines split the road in half and give to traffic of one direction a half and to traffic of the opposite direction, the other half. The white line offers no practical barrier but to the wise motorist it bears a menace more compelling than barbed wire entanglements.

Its breadth spells life or death, and it is a narrow line. On one side, following the designating arrows the motorist is safe. On the other he becomes in juxtaposition with the opposite traffic flow and it is on such situations that accidents and injuries and death build their catastrophes.

Now the churches have put out many arrows designating a straight and narrow path. But because their white lines are not painted along the paths of pleasure or business, they do not have the compelling influence of the white lines of the highway department, which by their breadth, spell life and death.

CONGRESSMAN BRAND'S SALARY INCREASE

WHEN the salary increase bill was jockeyed through Congress and a record vote avoided, Congressman Brand of Ohio, absent at the time, announced he would refuse to accept the $2500 increase in pay the bill provided. Congressman Brand lives at Urbana, represents the Seventh District, in which nine counties are grouped, and he has made good on the refusal he announced. His pay check for the larger amount comes, but each month he deducts one-twelfth of the $2500 increase from the check and puts it in a special deposit. His plan was to use that fund for the advantage of the people of his district.

It did not take long to find a place. Road building is one of the activities in those counties and Congressman Brand thinks farmers ought to have gravel and crushed stone paved roads if they want them. He is using the funds to purchase stone crushers for the counties where they can be used to save large sums for the property owners. He plans to help each county secure the thing most needed, rock crusher, road drags or something else that contributes to the unbuilding of the highways and the convenience of the public.

Giving to the people of the district each year $2500 is a new form of pleasure for congressmen in Ohio, or any other state. Congressman Brand is the only Ohio congressman in the give-back-the-money class. He proposes to see that it goes where it will be of real service to the people of the county. He has been a faithful representative of the district when at Washington and he intends to be helpful when at home. Jesters sought to make merry with his statement that he would refund the increase but, if they thought he was jesting, they did not know the Urbana congressman. He is going ahead with the plan and can be counted on to go ahead to the end. It can hardly fail to interest the people of the nine counties in his district. It may interest the people of the entire state. It is so novel, so unusual.

CONSOLATION

What comfort have I now to give,
To soothe the heart to which has come
That grief which leaves our senses numb?
That grief which makes it pain to live
And darkens every path, and seems
The end of all our happy dreams.
Oh, friend of mine, be brave, and know
That never will she suffer so.

Together we have prayed that she Might longer stay with her caress,
To fill the day with happiness;
But oh, what bargain could there be,
What pledge or promise could we make

To save ourselves this present ache
And keep her here? Ten years? Ah,
No!

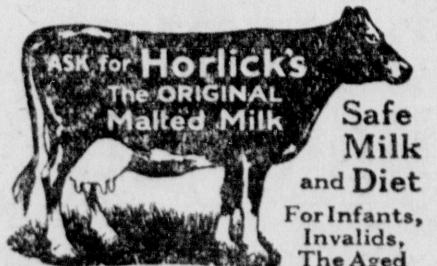

'Twould hurt us then to let her go.

There is no time that we could set
For parting. We who must remain
Are never ready for such pain
Ever our prayer would be: "Not yet!
Nor yet, dear God, another day,
With us let our beloved stay.
We must believe when falls the blow
That wisely God has willed it so."

God has her in His keeping now,
Angels attend her through the day,
Never her feet shall go astray,
Never shall anguish line her brow,
Never a bitter thought shall find
Harsh lodgment in her gentle mind,
Lovely her girlhood shall remain,
Safe from the hurt of time and pain.

Every woman who wishes to make pickles this year should write to the United States Department of Agriculture for their free Farmers Bulletin No. 1438 entitled, "Making Fermented Pickles." I am going to tell you a few of the excellent things which that bulletin contains:

"Because of their shape, firmness or keeping quality, some varieties of cucumbers are better adapted for making pickles than others. Among the best of the pickleable varieties are the Chicago Pickling, the Boston Pickling, and Snow's Perfection. Cucumbers of practically all varieties, sizes and shapes, however, make good pickles. They should be placed in brine not later than 21 hours after they have been gathered. Cucumbers contain approximately 90 percent of water. As this, large water content reduces materially the salt concentration of any brine in which they are fermented, it is necessary to add an excess of salt at the beginning of a fermentation in the proportion of one pound for every ten pounds of cucumbers. The active stage of cucumber fermentation continues for ten to 30 days, depending largely on the temperature at which it is conducted. The most favorable temperature is 56 degrees Fahrenheit. . . . more salt should be added gradually over a period of weeks.

"After being cured in brine, pickles must receive a processing in water to remove the excess of salt. If they are to be used as salt pickles, only a partial processing is required. If, however, they are to be made into sour, sweet or mixed pickles, the salt should be largely, but not completely, removed. . . . Put the pickles in a vessel, cover with water and heat slowly to about 120 degrees Fahrenheit at which temperature they should be held for from ten to 12 hours, being stirred frequently.

"Sour Pickles: After pickles have been processed sufficiently drain them well and cover with vinegar. After a week or ten days transfer the pickles to a vinegar of the strength desired. As the first vinegar used will in all cases be greatly reduced in strength by dilution with the brine contained in the pickles, it will be necessary to renew the vinegar after a few weeks."

The bulletin also contains invaluable hints on the making of sweet pickles, Dill Pickles, Mixed Pickles and Sauerkraut.

Kills Pesky Bed-Bugs P.D.Q.

Just think, a 35c box of P. D. Q. (Pesky Devil's Quietness), makes a quart, enough to kill a million bedbugs, roaches, fleas or moths and stops future generations by killing the eggs and does not injure the clothing.
Liquid fire to the bedbugs is what P. D. Q. is like, bedbugs stand as good a chance as a snowball in a justly famed heat resort. Patent spout free in every package of P. D. Q., to enable you to kill them and their eggs in the cracks. P. D. Q. can also be purchased in sealed bottles, double strength, liquid form.

"So your husband has given up smoking? That needs a pretty strong will, doesn't it?"
"Well, I've got one."

Come in and try one of our delicious ice cream sodas or a sundae. You will have "pretty strong will" if you do not come back for another.

Pure sugar syrup, pure fruit, delicious ice cream. That's what makes them taste so good.

THE HALL OF FAME

In New York City they have a Hall of Fame which is a beautiful colonnade built about the outer edge of a group of college buildings, a part of New York University.

It is a most impressive sight. There you will see the bronze tablets and busts of famous men and women who have served humanity and added to the glory and worth of life.

I saw the bust of Poe and read the characteristic inscription on the bronze plate and I thought of his unhappy life and his brilliant art. I saw the busts of Lincoln, Frances Willard, Charlotte Cushman, Morton Sherman, Emerson, Washington, Hamilton, and others.

The busts of Grant and Lee are placed side by side.

The names for this Hall of Fame are selected by an electorate of approximately 100, chosen from all the various American states. There is no discrimination as to who is eligible. But now that person must have been dead for 25 years.

New York University is situated on Washington Heights in upper New York City and overlooks the Harlem and Hudson rivers with their flavor of movement and commerce. The location is beautiful. As you walk through this impressive place you wonder where there are so many of the great there who had to die so unappreciated and after a life so full of fights and failures. And then the thought comes to you that this is greatness!

No one should visit New York City without seeing this Hall of Fame. It is something to inspire the discouraged and hearten the weary. Also it is a sight to impel the heart to appreciate the great in life. As you silently read the inscriptions and quotations of those whose spirits hover above, you are impressed with the immensity of human character and of the ideas that have lifted it to where it may serve all mankind.

On the tablet to "Mark Twain" are these words:

"Loyalty to petrifed opinion never yet broke a chain or freed a human soul."

And on the tablet to James Russell Lowell these words:

"No power can die that ever wrought for Truth."

Thereby a law of nature is become And lives unwithered in its blithe-some youth

When he who calls it forth is but a name"

And on the tablet to Robert E. Lee are these words:

"Duty then is the sublimest word in our language. Do your duty in all things. You cannot do more. You shall never wish to do less."

It is interesting to note that brother and sister are there in the names of Harriet Beecher Stowe and Henry Ward Beecher.

CITY AUDITOR'S REPORT SHOWS BONDED DEBT IS BEING DIMINISHED IN XENIA

Economy measures since the present works debt now stands at $317,500 which is gradually being paid off year by year. The report for the six months ending June 30 of City Auditor T. H. Zell and speak well for the commission manager form of government.

The general bonded indebtedness of the city of Xenia at the close of the six months ending June 30 was only $102,300. Against this amount, the interest and sinking fund trustees have available $51,192.39 to apply on the debt, leaving an actual city debt of only $51,107.61. This is taken care of by general taxation.

The general debt is being paid off at the average rate of $15,400 annually, the report shows. Based on these figures the city will have a clean slate and the entire debt will be completely wiped out in four years with the funds now in the hands of the interest and sinking fund trustees.

The financial condition of the city is unusual and easily better than 90 per cent of cities of population the size of Xenia in the state, it is said. In fact, but two or three cities, regardless of size and population in the entire state, show a financial condition on a par with that of Xenia.

The general debt was decreased by $121,300 in bonds which matured and were paid off last year. Twenty years ago, the old city council issued $105,000 worth of refunding bonds. Several of these matured in the latter half of 1924 and were promptly paid off by the interest and sinking fund trustees.

The city issues nothing but serial bonds now which are gradually paid off each year, under a state law. The general bonded debt is being paid off at the rate of $15,400 annually.

Numbered among the bonds paid off last year were several on the City Hall, meaning the city now has complete ownership.

The report shows a special assessment debt of $250,800 in addition to the general debt which is paid off by property owners and is actually the debt of the general public. This amount is being reduced at the average rate of $54,850 a year.

SIX YEAR SEARCH IS ENDED WITH ARREST OF MAN WANTED HERE

A search which lasted six years, and was pursued through several states, ended Friday morning when Charles Clifford Baker, erstwhile Xenian, later fugitive from justice and western adventurer, landed behind the bars of the Greene County jail.

Baker escaped from the Xenia work house during the superintendency of James Hone, the last head of that institution before it was discontinued. Since then he has successfully eluded authorities, who sought him first as an escaped prisoner and later on the charge for which he is now under arrest, non-support of his three minor children whom he abandoned in the custody of their grandmother, Mrs. Mary A. Rockefeller of this city.

The warrant charging non support was issued in probate court. The date for Baker's arraignment has not been set. Vigilance on the part of J. E. Watts, probation officer, resulted in the apprehension of Baker. Officer Watts made one trip to Hominy, Okla., two or three years ago, to arrest Baker, but Baker probably received a tip that the officer was after him, and when Mr. Watts arrived at his destination Baker had disappeared, leaving no trace.

Little was heard of him for some time, until finally he was thought to be located at a Denver address. The latest tip came to Officer Watts a few days ago that Baker with his Indian wife, whom he married in Oklahoma, were at the home of Baker's father, Walter Baker, near Waynesville. The officer telephoned to Sheriff Brant of Warren County and last night that official arrested Baker at his father's home, coming upon him unexpectedly. He placed him in jail at Lebanon. Friday morning Sheriff Morris Sharp and Officer Watts went to Lebanon and brought Baker back to Xenia.

MRS. WARNER MORRIS SUCCEUMS FRIDAY

Mrs. Maria W. Morris, wife of Warner Morris, passed away at her home in New Burlington, Friday morning at the age of 70 years. She had been in ill health for some time.

Surviving her besides her husband, are two sons, Lee Morris, of Dayton, and Lyle Morris of New Burlington. She was a life long member of the Friends Church.

Funeral services will be held at the home Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, standard time. Interment will be made in Spring Valley.

COMMISSIONS HOPE TO AGREE ON SITE

No regular City Commission meeting was held Thursday night due to absence from the city of three members.

John W. Prugh is in Florida, Harry Sparks is vacationing in northern Michigan while S. M. McKay is spending several days at Lakeside, Ohio.

No date for the next adjourned session of the commission has been set by Judge H. L. Smith, president of the body.

RECEIVE AT TEA HONORING GUEST

Mrs. W. E. Cox and Mrs. Jacob Baldwin received at 4 o'clock tea Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Baldwin on West Third Street for the pleasure of Mrs. Raymer C. Jewell of San Antonio, Texas, the houseguest of Mrs. Baldwin.

In the receiving line were Mrs. Cox, Mrs. Baldwin and Mrs. Jewell assisted by Mrs. Ray Cox.

Twenty small tables were scattered throughout the rooms and at each table summer bloom was arranged artistically.

Out-of-town guests received were Mrs. Ella Kendall of Columbus, O., Mrs. W. F. McCaunaghey, Mrs. Fred Kohnle, Mrs. Stella Osborn and Mrs. Mae Smith all of Dayton, O., and Mrs. Robert Norton of Sumner, Miss., the house guest of Mrs. Frederick Anderson of this city.

IS HOSTESS AT DINNER

Mrs. S. S. Wright of South Detroit Street was hostess at a two course dinner Thursday evening honoring Mr. and Mrs. Robert Conley and Mrs. Jane W. Chestnut of Crystal City, Mo.

Mr. and Mrs. Conley have been the guests of Mr. Conley's father, Mr. Will Conley of Cedarville and of Mrs. Conley's brother, the Rev. James L. Chestnut of Covington, O.

Covers were laid for the following guests, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Conley, Mrs. Jane W. Chestnut, of Crystal Springs, Mo., Mr. and Mrs. Will Conley, Dr. and Mrs. W. R. McClesney, all of Cedarville, the Rev. and Mrs. James L. Chestnut and son Junior of Covington, O., Judge S. C. Wright and the hostess, Mrs. S. C. Wright.

ENTERTAIN FOR HOUSEGUEST

Miss Emma Ebricht, Miss Wella Shipley, Miss Edith Robinson and Mrs. Clara Reutinger were hostesses to a company of friends Thursday evening at a picnic party at the home of Miss Ebricht, Corwin avenue, complimenting Miss Etta Welling of West Carlisle, the houseguest of Mrs. Ohmer Tate.

EAST END NEWS

We wish to thank neighbors and friends who so ably assisted us during the illness and death of our mother.

Signed C. C. and I. J. WYNN.

Mrs. Sarah Smith, 77, colored died at her home in New Jasper, 11 o'clock Thursday night, following a long illness. Her death occurred in the home where she had lived for 63 years.

She was the daughter of Elijah and American Hughes Smith. Surviving her are a brother, George with whom she lived and two sisters: Mrs. Ann Proctor of Richmond, Ind., and Mrs. Mary E. Lewis of Chicago. Funeral plans will be announced later.

MODISH MITZI—The View of the Worm That Turned to Look By JAY V. JAY

Polly must always be adoring someone—she's made that way. However, in this case you needn't think she is adoring Mitzi's skill in diving. She knows very well that Mitzi will land on her stomach—it's the new bobbed stockings she admires.

A worm's eye view of these dazzling leg-coverings might lead to the conclusion that they were silk and wool. No such thing. These are the newest and smartest of golf stockings and they are made of fine sheer lisle. All imported, too.

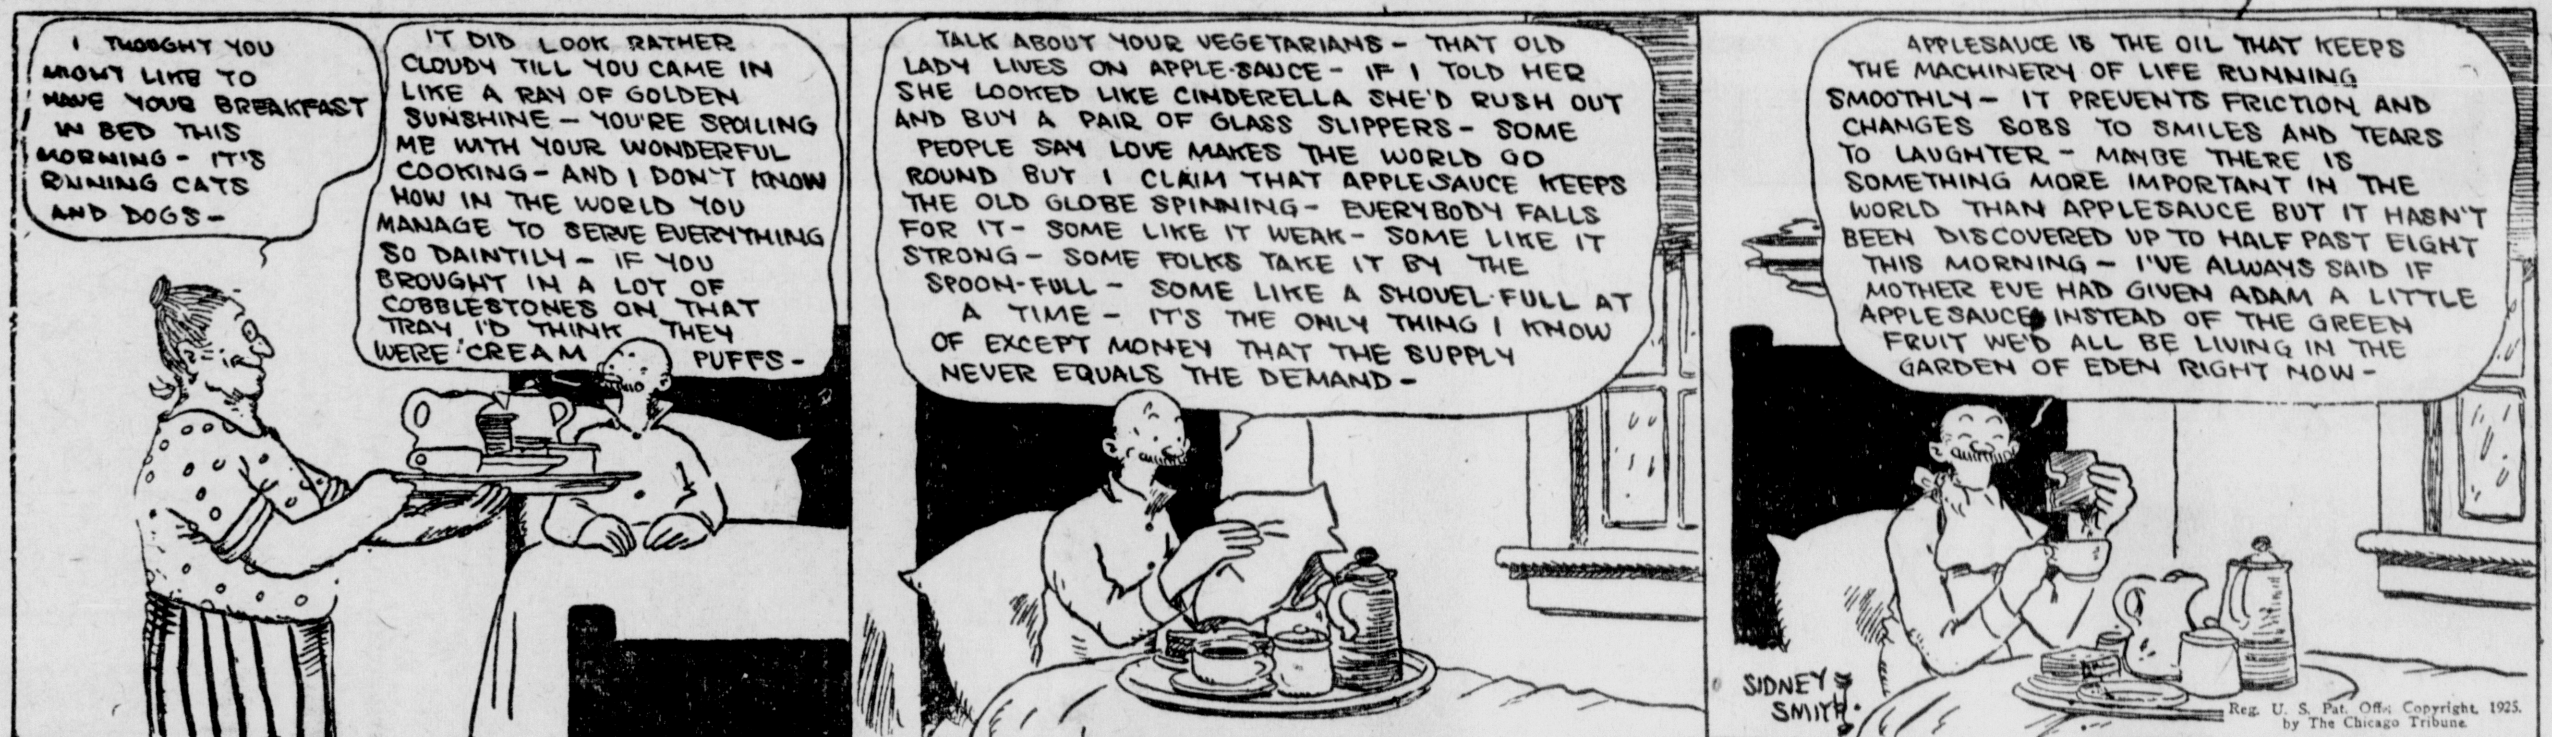

The most cobweb-like fineness is the proper thing for evening and if it is a marvel how so sheer a stocking can bear the weight of even the finest embroidery—well, Mitzi has them anyway and in the smart new pastel colors at that!

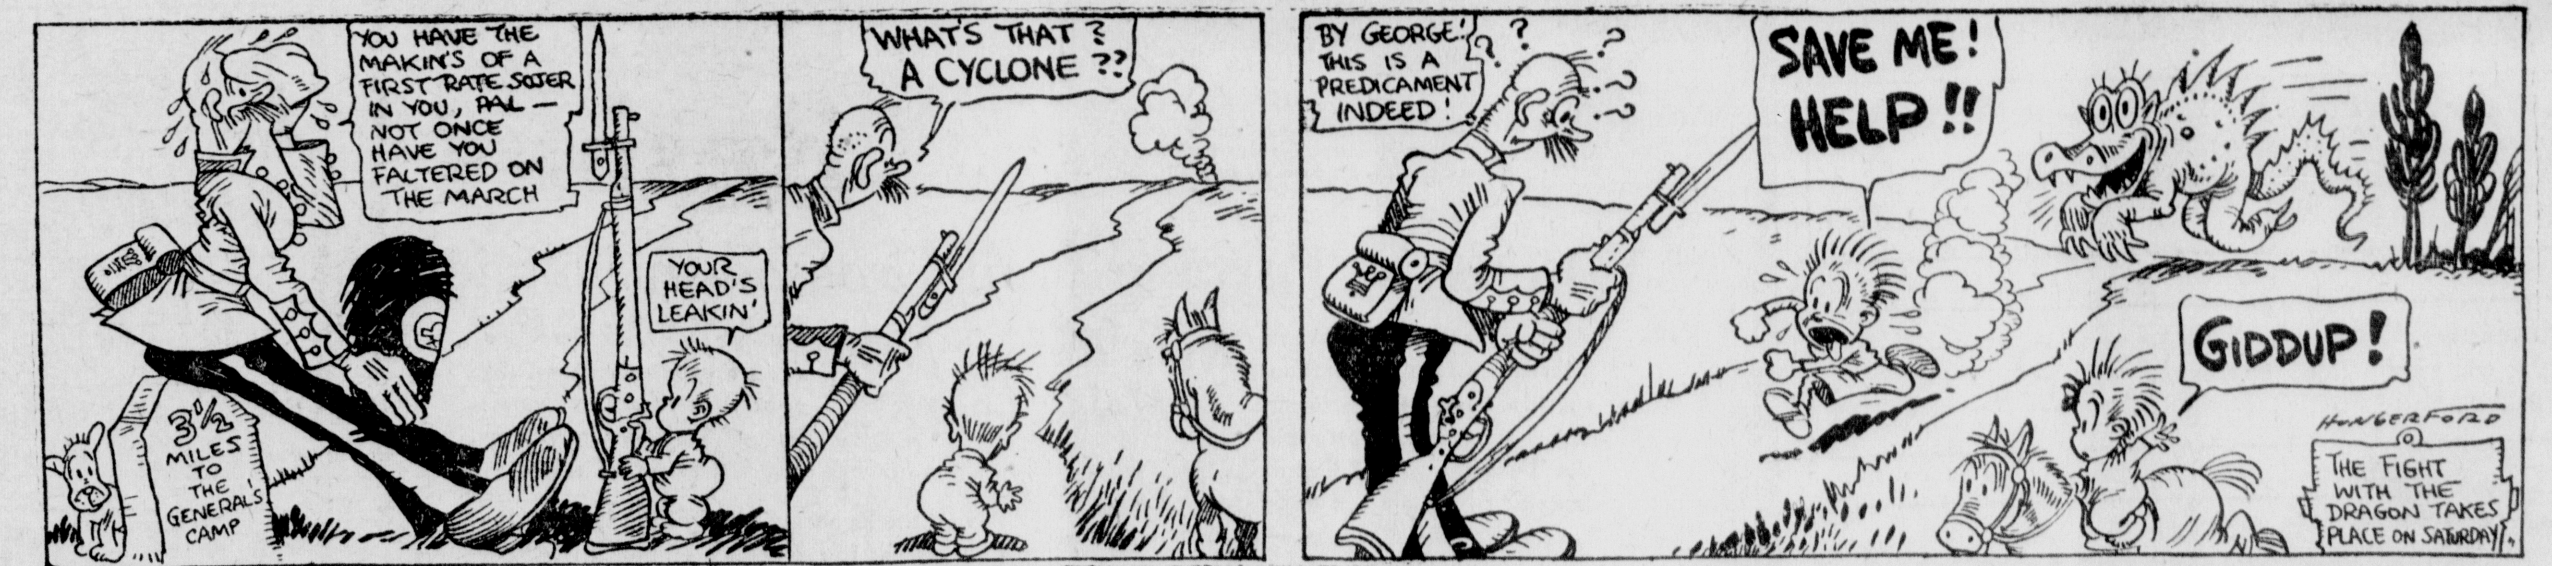

These are lisle, too, and quite the smartest things about the golf links. Stripes, checks and diamond patterns are all good and the limit to the colors worn is the limit of the wearer's imagination. And there isn't much limit to that!

FIRST PLACE IN INDUSTRIAL LEAGUE AT STAKE WHEN KELLYS PLAY ROPEMAKERS

The R. A. Kelly and Hooten and Allison teams are scheduled to oppose each other at Washington Park Saturday afternoon in an Industrial League double-header with first position in the league at stake.

The Kellys hold a slight edge of fifty percentage points over the second place H. and A. bunch but a double win for the Rope-makers Saturday would alter the standing and give them a game and a half lead.

The Kellys have retained a tight hold on first place since the league was instituted and two wins Saturday would almost clinch the top notch position.

An even break would leave the teams in their present position.

The Pennsylvania Railroad team has an opportunity to climb within reaching distance of third place in the game with the Tilton's "33" nine Friday night.

The Tiltons have won three out of four starts in the league to date, and having designs on second place, are not so easily to be ousted from leadership of the second division.

UNBEATEN TEAMS TO MEET; MERCHANTS TO PLAY MILLARDS

A battle royal between two undefeated teams, each with a long string of victories to its credit is the baseball dish to be served fans Sunday afternoon at Dickinson Park diam when the Xenia Merchants play the Millard Clothiers of Springfield.

A glimpse at the past record compiled by each nine gives fans the inside dope on the class of ball which will be displayed Sunday.

The Clothiers are about the best bet in the Reeper City this season with a record of fifteen straight victories in as many contests. Nor has the Millard nine encountered easy opposition and "walk-overs" in its games but has played such strong teams as the Dayton Maroons, winning 4 to 1 in the inaugural tilt of the season.

The Merchants have been going at a fast clip also this season and won their eleventh straight game last Sunday. Merchant fans are banking their hopes of victory on the sturdy wings of Jones and Lewis, regular hurlers, neither of whom has tasted defeat.

Although a city championship game between the Merchants and Xenia Reserves is not being agitated, the result of the Merchant-Clothiers game Sunday will go a long way toward at least deciding the relative merit of the local aggregations on paper.

The Clothiers scored more than twenty runs in beating the Reserves this season.

MANY IMMIGRANTS

Defiance, July 24—Defiance County is conducting a small melting pot for aliens, it was revealed, when an agent for the North German Lloyd line announced here that twenty-two immigrants from Germany had settled in this county in the last two years. Passage money, amounting in some cases to more than $1,000 for each family, was supplied by relatives and friends of the newcomers. All but two of these have now found employment and are self-supporting, thus relieving citizens who guaranteed to support them until they found employment.

You Save While You Spend When Buying Insurance

Bab insisted on spending his money where it would "show."

Every shiny doodab and gilded gadget that the accessory stores stock, he bought and stuck on his car.

If an automobile policy had been a nickelplated contraption to wear on a radiator cap or windshield he'd have had one.

As it was, he couldn't see putting good money into something to be hidden in desk drawer or safe deposit box.

But in spite of his bumpers, his windshield wiper, cigar lighter, and vanity case he had an accident.

He had to retain a lawyer, pay the court costs, and settle a $10,000 damage judgment out of his own pocket, simply because he had overlooked the MOST NECESSARY MOTOR ACCESSORY—Travelers Automobile Insurance.

Insurance in all its branches

This fact will greatly help the Greene County annual attraction to be a success and will also assure a greater entry of horses in the local meet, Secretary Bryson believes.

Fifteen fairs are scheduled during the months of August, September and October in southern Ohio.

Following are the dates for county fairs in this section of the state:

Highland County Fair, July 28-31, at Rainsboro.

Greene County Fair, August 4-7, at Xenia.

Hillsboro Fair, August 4-7, at Hillsboro.

Clinton County Fair, August 11-14, at Wilmington.

Champaign County Fair, August 18-21, at Urbana.

Fayette County Fair, August 19-21, at Washington C. H.

Madison County Fair, August 25-28, at London.

Darke County Fair, August 24-28, at Greenville.

Montgomery County Fair, Sept. 7-11, at Dayton.

Warren County Fair, Sept. 15-18, at Lebanon.

This is No. 6 of a series of advertisements by the Standard Oil Co. (Ohio) designed to tell Ohioans about their interesting State and encourage them to see more of it.

Akron's Metropolitan Business Section

Where man once trod the well-worn trail now lies Portage Lakes State Park, a chain of five beautiful lakes, popular with campers and vacationists from all parts of Ohio.

Where the Portage Trail Crossed the Divide

Akron's fashionable West Market residential section spans a range of hills forming the watershed between the Tuscarawas and Cuyahoga river valleys. Streams rising south of this ridge pour into the far-distant Gulf of Mexico—those to the north empty at last into the North Atlantic by way of Niagara Falls and the mighty St. Lawrence.

Indian and early settler, traveling between Lake Erie and the Ohio River, had to "portage"—or carry—his canoe and all its load across these hills. A handsome monument now stands in Perkins Park to mark the course of the ancient Portage Trail. Another, close by, commemorates that John Brown whose song-famed "soul goes marching on,"—who was once a resident of this city.

Akron, the Rubber Capital of the world, supplies one of the essentials of modern motoring. This Ohio corporation supplies another—the fuel and lubricants your car must have—through its state-wide organization devoted to service to the people of this State. For directions to local points of interest ask at any of the 15 Standard Oil Service Stations in Akron.

A SHOPPING GUIDE FOR THE BARGAIN HUNTER

"NOT POSSIBLE TO CLASSIFY" BY MACK SAUER

On a jaunt about town: Aged old man warped with rheumatism. Cool shadows playing behind leafy maples. There goes Sutton, manager of the Sutton music store. Wonder how many notes it would take to buy an 88-note piano.

Battered old car spattered with Texas mud. Barefooted youth whistling "I didn't raise my check to be a convict." Cruel cat crouching for a bird. Store windows pasted with July Clearance Sales signs. Farmer carrying a turtle with initials carved on its breast. Even a turtle has its drawback.

Here comes my tailor, I'll dodge across the street. I owe him. My trousers were resented but his bill hasn't been repaid. Oh, for the good old fashioned way of doing as I please. Just now I'd like to sit on the corner in front of the Xenia National Bank and eat a slice of watermelon.

Anyway, young married couples in Xenia can start out on their married voyages better than in the old days. I can remember when we didn't have Ford to help us get a start. Something pathetic about a woman in mourning in a railroad passenger depot. Reminds me of the old song about "In the Baggage Coach Ahead."

Evening. Flashing electric signs darting and zig-zagging messages. Youths rushing into movie houses. The Hammer Club gathering for the weekly meeting. Wonder where I can get a good bowl of soup? I'll take a beet home to my wife and have her make me some beet soup. Can you beat it? Now for the ads.

SO I SAID TO HIM
A Fairfield lady named Tims,
Wore roll-down socks on her limbs,
When she sang in the choir,
The men who sat high her,
Didn't look all the time at the hims.

So I said to him, "I'll take the thirty thousand and buy up all the ukeleles in town and burn them." By the way if you have anything for sale, just phone an ad to Louise Baldwin. We're the boys from Illinois. Make lots of noise.

PLEASE PASS THE PRUNES
I never see a horsefly
Light on a horse's face
But what I stop and wonder
Just how the horse must taste.

There is always hope. The fact that the election of the president of the United States may some day be held in the House of Representatives gives us some hope that that distinguished body may do something worth while yet. If you want more work, read the "Help Wanted" ads. Or, put an ad in the "Work Wanted" column.

SUGGESTIONS FOR SOLVING CROSS-WORD PUZZLES
Start out by filling in the words of which you feel reasonably sure. These will give you a clue to other words crossing them, and they in turn to still others. A letter belongs in each white space, word starting at the numbered squares and running either horizontally or vertically or both.

HOBBIES OF THE GREAT AND NEAR GREAT AS TOLD BY NEWS WRITER

Editor's Note—This is the eighth of a series of intimate sketches which reveal the national political figure as a "brother under the skin" to the man behind the plow, the white collar worker or the day laborer. Others will follow.

JOHN G. SARGENT

The granite hills of Vermont have sent a new champion to Washington in the person of John Garibaldi Sargent, Attorney-General of the United States.

Almost coincident with his taking office Sargent was crowned king of hobbyists in the Coolidge administration. His brief contact with newspapermen in the hectic days following the Senate upheaval over an Attorney-Generalship revealed the fact that Sargent had more hobbies than any other man in the Capital's official life.

The new Attorney-General is a collector of pipes, a collector of clocks, an epicurean, a skilled fisherman, an amateur gardener, a proficient camper, a campfire cook, an apple fancier and a "first-aid" physician. All this, aside from being a lawyer and the Attorney General. This list, too, is incomplete, as the first batch of Sargent hobbies flooded his audience, and the newspapermen didn't ask for more.

Sargent's last hobby covered by his hobby has led the Attorney-General into collecting antiques, and his home in Vermont is filled with choice bric-a-brac from other periods. This fact is one of his delights, and a visitor to the Sargent home is regaled with the stories attached to each antique.

As an epicurean, Sargent has won many table honors. He is said to have the most prodigious appetite ever to be known in the United States. Sargent spent his youth on a farm and can still take his place in the fields and, due chiefly to his great frame, hold the pace with the best of farm hands.

BECAME TINSMITH
In this connection, he learned early the tricks of a tinsmith, and repair work of that sort was turned over to the future Attorney-General. He can still wield the tinshears and the soldering iron.

A garden also attracts the Attorney-General. He loves to putter among flowers and rose bushes and maintains his own little rose garden at his Vermont home. There, too, he keeps an apple orchard, and his taste of late has turned to raising various brands, with such success as to win him the reputation of being an apple-fancier.

PLAYS DOCTOR
Sargent has considerable medical knowledge and can administer relief in all "first aid" cases. He carries a small medical kit in his briefcase and takes delight in using it whenever the opportunity offers. He has played "doctor" a good many times around his law office and since his entry to the Department of Justice.

Sargent has a "gift of the tongue," for he likes to debate with his friends. His first conversation with newspapermen illustrated this.

"If you've got anything on your mind, speak up," he told them. "I'll argue it out with you."

And they do, and he does.

Next—Hiram W. Johnson.

PRINCESS HERMINE FAILS TO ANSWER TO KAISER'S HOPES

"Yes, I do know—but tell me why," Hermine interposed.

"Because, if I may be quite frank, with you, the kaiser is to the world the personification of all that which is disapproved, hated, combatted and fought against in the war. He is regarded as the incarnation of 'Prussianism.'"

SCORES PROPAGANDA

"Yes, yes," rejoined Hermine and for the first time there was a note of bitterness and weariness in her voice. "That is the fruit of wartime propaganda. Lloyd George, Lord Northcliffe and others had to have their scape-goat, upon whom to centralize agitation."

"Well, Wilhelm, indeed is their victim. Only recently I read how hatefully the Italian ex-premier Sig. Nitti wrote about the kaiser, although Sig. Nitti knows many kind things he could say concerning Germany and the German people. But when he had the helm of the Italian ship of state he talked differently."

"What do you think about the crown prince's new book on the war guilt?"

"I find it very good. He sent me a copy the other day."

Hermine said her relations with all the kaiser's kin are of the most cordial. She corresponds with them regularly, especially with crown princes.

The noonday meal at Doorn is extremely simple and consists of a meat dish with potatoes, one other vegetable and dessert; after luncheon the kaiser smokes a cigarette and takes a little walk with his wife in the gardens.

"He doesn't smoke cigars because he knows I loathe them," Hermine continued her simple narrative.

"That is only one of countless little thoughtful touches that make our marital life so pleasant. He is always concerned with my likes and dislikes. On the other hand I try to keep his in my mind. There are never any cross currents between us. The world does not know Wilhelm second as he really is. It may picture him as a disgruntled, embittered, vain-glorious egotist, who spends his days in exile, cursing his enemies and brooding over some possible way to take revenge."

"I will tell you how he really is. I assure you what I tell is not because I am his wife. It is because it is the truth; if it were not so, I could pass over the subject in silence."

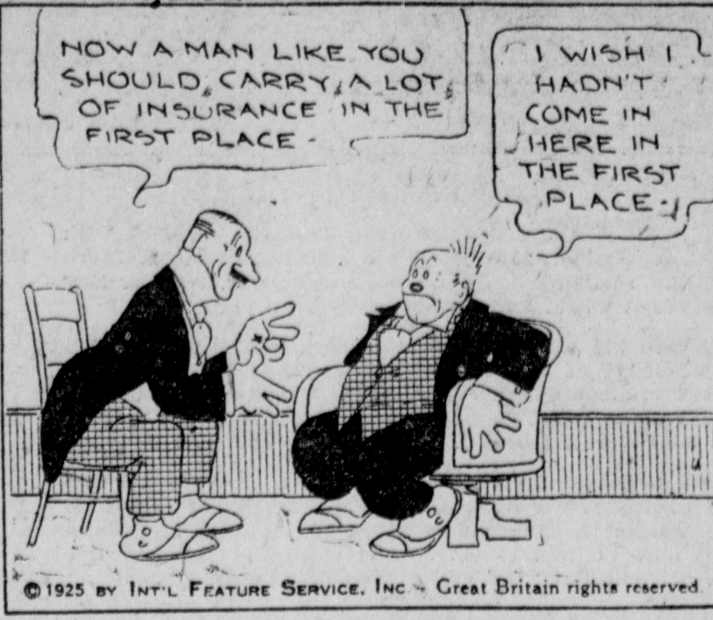

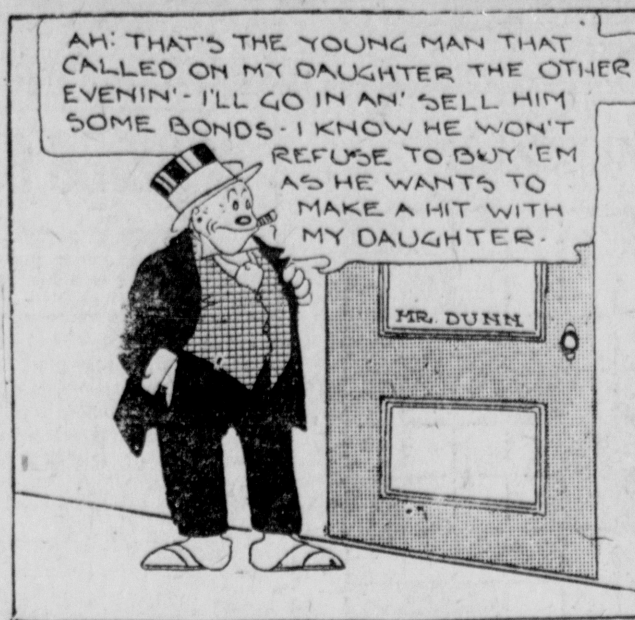

(The concluding installment of this interview will be carried tomorrow.)

TAKES POSITION

G. R. Hutsler, Springfield, assumed a connection with the Moser Shoe Store here Monday. He formerly owned and operated a shoe store in Springfield, selling it to enter the Army at the time of the World War and recently has been connected with the Virginian Joint Stock Land Bank. BRINGING UP FATHER

By GEORGE McMANUS

All Otto Understands Is Boloney; He's German Dog

Otto von Gabriel will have to learn to speak English before he will become popular in this country.

Otto barks with a German accent now and nobody understands him. Likewise Otto doesn't understand anybody. For Otto is a German police dog and he is fresh in this country after being born, reared and educated in Germany.

Process of assimilation is now going on at the Shawnee Kennels, owned by Clark Poland, West Main Street. There Frank Gillespie, famous dog trainer, who high-schooled "Guardman," the trick dog owned by K. L. Estabrook, Dayton, is having a hard time making the immigrant canine understand his Gaelic dialect.

Otto is the property of Henry Burkhardt, Dayton, who brought the German trained dog back from Germany with him recently. When Gillespie, who speaks dog language so that all breeds understand, gives Otto a command, the tourist thinks he is being insulted. He barks back in his native German and the argument is on.

Using a few German words evidently picked up when the German bands toured the country, Gillespie recently ordered Otto into his kennel. Frank didn't know what the German words meant but Otto evidently took them for an insult. He barked back vociferously and refused to obey the command. As a last resort, Gillespie shouted "sausage." Otto immediately was silenced and obeyed the command.

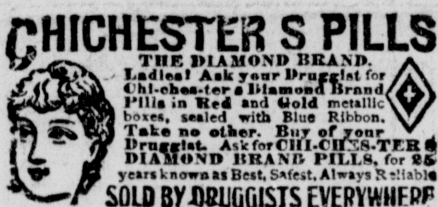

"All he understands is boloney," said Frank. Otto is well-trained and considered a smart canine in the Fatherland, but over here so far, he is a "Dud." Until he picks up the language and learns to understand what is being said to him, he is going to be as useless as a three-lettered word meaning a three-toed sloth.

OTTO WAS FLAT TIRE

When there was a call for the police dogs to aid in the search for the slayer of Patrolman Charles Simms recently, Frank took Otto along for the experience. But Connie B., the crack man-chaser bought by Mr. Poland from the Pallisade Kennels, Staten Island, N. Y., had to do all the work. Otto didn't know what it was all about. Picking up a cold trail, Connie B. led the searchers to the section along the Little Miami River, near Trebeins, where Robert Lee was later arrested for the killing. Otto however, didn't know whether he was on a fishing excursion or was being taken out for the exercise. When Gillespie tried to get him warmed up to the chase, he thought Frank was trying to kid him. Efforts finally had to be abandoned while Connie B. did all the work.

Frank says Otto is a great dog, however, and when he learns the language, will turn out to be a smart canine. And Frank ought to know. When the puppies cry at the kennels, Frank can tell by ear whether they are hungry or whether it is a "misery" cry. The dogs at the kennels are his constant companions and his pals. He finds them better companions than human associates most times.

MICHAEL'S MARRIAGE

By MICHAEL

CHAPTER 104.

Mrs. Pharely's early morning visit was unexpected, and Lilah was not prepared to meet her mother. She was still in the mood in which Michael had left her, and was at the breakfast table, idly contemplating her hands, when her mother swept in and kissed her.

"I just had to run in and see you," the visitor exclaimed, seating herself. "You haven't phoned me or anything."

"I've been busy—" Lilah responded, indefinitely.

The other woman eyed her shrewdly.

"You two have been having trouble, haven't you?"

Lilah shook her head too convincingly, and Mother Pharely smiled.

"Well, we all have trouble. It just seems that two persons don't get along well together without it."

Lilah arose and led her mother into the library. "Sally is annoyed if I don't allow her to get in and clear away the breakfast things as early as possible," she exclaimed when they were out of the range of Sally's ears.

"You're letting Sally be the boss, when you should be, I'm afraid," averred the elder woman, with certainty.

"Well, I can't be too forward. I'm awfully ignorant about some things..." She stood gazing out of the window reflectively.

Mother Pharely got up from the chair in which she had just relaxed and went to her daughter. Taking her by the shoulders—she searched her eyes.

"Is it—"

Lilah understood before the words were uttered.

"No, it isn't that."

Mother Pharely was wordless for a moment, then went back to her chair. "Your Aunt Mary wrote your father yesterday. She is still raving over what a fine couple you two make, and still hopes you will come out there to live. She appears to be very deeply attached to you both. Wants somebody to mother, I suppose."

"I'm sort of sorry that Michael didn't remain out there now. You know he came back just because he didn't want to give up his present position, and now he's going to leave it!"

"No!" Mother Pharely did not indicate her surprise with speech, but with gesture.

"He hasn't decided, but he probably will sell his holdings in the company and start a business of his own." She did not consider her words.

Mother Pharely recovered. "What's the matter? Having trouble?"

"Not exactly. Mr. Manning wants to be president of a consolidation the company probably will enter, and he needs Michael's stock, so he is offering a very good price for it. Michael has felt for some time that Mr. Manning and the others want to get him out of the concern, because he is too conservative."

Mother Pharely departed half an hour later, after confiding a budget of family news.

She was upon Michael's mind when he came home that afternoon. He was wondering if Lilah had cried upon her shoulder and told her troubles.

Lilah did not mention the visit, and it remained for her husband to refer to it first.

"Everyone all right at home?" he asked at dinner.

"Yes... I told her about the change you were expecting to make, and she thinks you are doing exactly the right thing."

His fork paused in mid-air and went back to his plate.

"I wish you hadn't mentioned the ——" he frowned. "If it should get out now—"

FAMOUS FRENCH RECIPES

SPINACH LOAF

Paris.—Spinach loaf is a good Spring dish for vegetarians. Clean well in several waters one pound of spinach and cook in boiling water for ten minutes. Remove and drain. Chop well.

Make a sauce with a large spoonful of butter and a little flour. When well mixed add a little milk, salt and pepper. Cook for a few minutes, stirring well. Add the yolks of two eggs. Pour this over the spinach and add the whites, beaten into a firm snow. Put all into a buttered mold lined with bread-crumbs. Cook three-quarters of an hour over hot water. Remove from the mold and serve at once.

POLICE COURT

FINES RACERS

An impromptu race staged on Second Street Wednesday cost two motorists a total of $34.80 in fines and costs, the amount assessed by Judge E. D. Smith in Police Court for speeding, in violation of the city traffic ordinance.

Maynard Taylor and Colman Riddle, arrested by Special Deputy Sheriff Dwyer Beiden, were each fined $11 and costs for speeding.

What Oil-Power looks like

This chart shows how one car—a 1924 model in good condition—performed in four tests with four different oils.

Bottom curve—Too heavy oil used. Ten H. P. the limit.

Second curve—Cheap oil used. Full power never developed. Limit 22 H. P.

Third curve—Old oil used. Power seriously lacking. Best showing was 27 H. P.

Top curve—Havoline as prescribed for that particular car. 31 H. P.

Car owners who have had first tests but not the second (detailed in No. 8 below) are reminded of its importance. Get it—and your Oil Prescription—before the Motor Check departs.

With every crank-case filling of Havoline you get these free tests on the Wasson Motor Check.

1. Test of car for horse-power.
2. Test for slippage of gases past pistons.
3. Test for timing accuracy.
4. Test of speedometer accuracy.
5. Test of wheel alignment.
6. Test of brake adjustment.
7. Test of car for slipping clutch.
8. Tests No. 1 and 2 repeated after you have driven car distance indicated by Motor Check engineer. This shows how Havoline is holding your power.

9. Your own personal Oil Prescription form for further reference.

*Note:—Tests do not include repairs or adjustments.
